
Welcome to the Seder!

Grandparents' Role in Embracing ALL Family
Members at Passover
With Rabbi Jessica Lowenthal

Values at the Center

“We were strangers in a strange land”

“Let all who are hungry come and eat”

Hachnasat Orchim (hospitality)

“In every generation, each person should see themselves as if they, personally, were slaves in Egypt”

A “mixed multitude” went out of Egypt together

Spring Similarities

Renewal and Regrowth

Greens

Eggs

Easter

Holi

Solstice

Before the Seder

Seating so everyone is interspersed. Grandkids can make table seating cards

How much Hebrew? Anything in Hebrew should also be in translation!

Alternative Seder plate items- perhaps previously discussed with the family

Song sheets ready, background songs cued up

Costumes or crafts ready

Everyone has the same Haggadah on their chair

Highlight what is most meaningful- plan out YOUR Seder

The Seder!

Snacks on the table (deviled eggs, celery sticks, etc.)

Take turns reading from the haggadah

Ask questions, be curious

Be like the grandkids- embrace silliness!

Set time for adult conversations, alternative plans for the kids

Have Fun!

My contact info

Rabbi Jessica Lowenthal

Rabbi@tbsma.org

Temple Beth Shalom of Melrose

Tbsma.org